

Republic of the Philippines
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
COMMISSION ON HIGHER EDUCATION

Reference No.:IASCTS24-I-2090

MEMORANDUM FROM THE OFFICE OF THE CHAIRPERSON

TO : PRESIDENTS/HEADS OF STATE UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES
CHED CENTRAL AND REGIONAL OFFICE
DIRECTORS/ OFFICERS-IN-CHARGE

SUBJECT : CALL FOR APPLICATIONS: SCIENCES PO VISITING FACULTY PROGRAMS
ACADEMIC YEAR 2025-2026

DATE : 30 August 2024

The Commission on Higher Education hereby informs all interested parties of the Call for Applications: Sciences Po Visiting Faculty Programs for Academic Year 2024-2025.

Sciences Po is an international research university, both selective and open to the world, ranking among the finest institutions in the fields of humanities and social sciences. Sciences Po stands out for combining approaches and confronting different worldviews. This tradition of diversity and its multidisciplinary approach makes Sciences Po a reputed player in academic research through its scientific production, an internationally recognized teaching university, an active participant in public debate, and a forum where thought meets action.

Sciences Po is the second international university in Politics & International Relations discipline according to the QS rankings, and is launching its visiting faculty programme for the Fall 2025 and Spring 2026 semesters. Candidates should be specialists of one of the following topics :

- Transformative role of AI in society and its potential impacts on democracy
- Global programme : any disciplines of Social sciences and Humanities
- Gender studies
- Discrimination, educational policies and health
- Environmental research

Application materials include the following and must be submitted in English or in French:

- A statement of interest for the position;
- A presentation of current and future research projects;

- A proposed course to be taught in English or French, and a two-page, session-by-session description of each course's content, for the Undergraduate College of Sciences Po or one of Sciences Po's graduate schools;
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae, including list of publications;
- An invitation letter from one of the Sciences Po research centers;
- A letter of support from the relevant head of department or dean of the applicant's home institution confirming their agreement for a one-semester residence at Sciences Po.

Important: Please note that you should contact the relevant Research Centre at least 2 to 3 weeks prior to the deadline for applications to secure a letter of invitation in due time.

The deadline for applications is on November 7, 2024.

Interested applicants may refer to the attached documents for more information.

Dissemination of this memorandum is desired.

Signed

J. PROSPERO E. DE VERA III, DPA
Chairman

The Open Institute for Digital Transformations at Sciences Po

Call for Applications for Visiting Faculty: AI & society Academic Year 2025-2026

Sciences Po is calling for outstanding applications for visiting faculty from around the world.

In the 2025-2026 academic year (Fall 2025, Spring 2026), Sciences Po will open two visiting faculty positions in the social sciences or humanities, for up to a semester-long stay (13 weeks minimum).

Sciences Po is an international research university, both selective and open to the world, ranking among the finest institutions in the fields of humanities and social sciences. Sciences Po stands out for combining approaches and confronting different worldviews. This tradition of diversity and its multidisciplinary approach makes Sciences Po a reputed player in academic research through its scientific production, an internationally recognized teaching university, an active participant in public debate, and a forum where thought meets action.

Detailed information about our research units, Undergraduate College and Graduate schools can be found on our website.

Sciences Po has formed the Open Institute for Digital Transformations¹, with the objective of promoting a new institutional approach to research and teaching based on reaffirming the importance of social sciences and humanities to the field as well as collaboration between the social sciences and humanities and the natural and computer sciences.

Within this Institute, Sciences Po is calling for applications for visiting faculty from around the world on the transformative role of AI in society and its potential impacts on democracy.

Research proposals may focus on, but are not limited to, the following themes:

- The economic impact of AI technologies, including on productivity, markets, and the structure and history of technology companies;
- AI and society: the transformation of work in various industries (health, insurance, news, creation, entertainment, science and education, etc.) including the fairness and inequality issues machine learning-based technology may rise;

¹ Sciences Po benefits from a French State aid managed by the National Research Agency within France 2030, in the context of the ExcellencES projects, under the reference ANR-22-EXES-0014, for its project "Transforming Interdisciplinary Education and Research for Evolving Democracies - TIERED".

- Digital law and governance: including regulation of AI technologies, algorithms and their use in social media, digital surveillance, rule of law and constitutional freedoms, challenges and opportunities of AI decision-making in government, geopolitics and global governance of AI, legal issues of generative AI productions, digitalisation of public services and governance, etc;
- Algorithms and politics, including the impact of social media on political competition and partisanship; political communication and discourse; political participation, public consultations, and elections; democratic innovations;
- AI and the information ecosystem, including misinformation, narrative manipulation, micro-targeting, and media system transformation;
- Technology and public participation, including measurement of public opinion online, harmful online discourse (hate speech), online social mobilization, etc;
- Social sciences and AI: new methods and data sources for the humanities and social sciences including: machine learning for social sciences, in silico sociology, digital humanities, etc.

Visiting faculty will be hosted in one of the Sciences Po research units, and will benefit from a collaborative research dynamic between researchers with diverse disciplinary backgrounds in the Open Institute for Digital Transformations.

The Visiting programme is open to academics at any career stage and in any discipline. We encourage researchers from all around the globe, especially women, to apply.

CONDITIONS

Visiting faculty will receive an overall monthly stipend of 4,000 euros (before taxes).

Visiting faculty are expected to teach one full course (12 x 2 hour sessions) with a digital/technological focus over the semester. They are also expected to contribute actively to the research community they will join, and to deliver at least one academic lecture or seminar presentation during their stay in line with the activities organized by the Open Institute for Digital Transformations.

Visiting faculty will be given access to an office space on campus, in the heart of Paris, to the Sciences Po library and other university facilities and to the research activities and events programme driven by the research unit in which they will be hosted.

The stay is to be scheduled between late August / start of September 2025 and November / December 2025, or between January 2026 and April / May 2026.

Sciences Po is a bilingual university (English and French); French is therefore not required in order to apply for this position.

APPLICATION

Applicants must be current full-time permanent faculty members of their home university or research institute, hold a doctorate (or equivalent university degree), and have teaching experience.

Application materials include the following and must be submitted in English or in French:

- A statement of interest for the position;
- A presentation of current and future research projects;
- A proposed course to be taught in English or French, and a two-page, session-by-session description of each course's content, for the Undergraduate College of Sciences Po or one of Sciences Po's graduate schools;
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae, including list of publications;
- An invitation letter from one of the Sciences Po research centers;
- A letter of support from the relevant head of department or dean of the applicant's home institution confirming their agreement for a one-semester residence at Sciences Po.

Important: Please note that you should contact the relevant Research Centre at least 2 to 3 weeks prior to the deadline for applications to secure a letter of invitation in due time.

Applications should be submitted by email to Carly Hafner, Secretary General of the Open Institute for Digital Transformations: carly.hafner@sciencespo.fr.

Applicants should feel free to reach out to Jean-Philippe Cointet, Director of the Open Institute for Digital Transformations: jeanphilippe.cointet@sciencespo.fr.

DEADLINE

Deadline for applications: November 7, 2024.

A selection committee will meet after the submission deadline, and decisions will be communicated to applicants by Sciences Po shortly thereafter.

The Sciences Po Visiting Faculty Global Program

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS ACADEMIC YEAR 2025-2026

Sciences Po is calling for outstanding applications for visiting faculty from around the world.

In the 2025-2026 academic year, Sciences Po will open two visiting faculty positions in the social sciences or humanities, for up to a semester-long each (6-weeks minimum).

Sciences Po is an international research university, both selective and open to the world, ranking among the finest institutions in the fields of humanities and social sciences. According to the 2024 QS Rankings by discipline Sciences Po is among the top two international universities in the Politics & International Relations category and remains the leading university in the European Union in this discipline. Sciences Po stands out for combining approaches and confronting different worldviews. This tradition of diversity and multidisciplinary approach makes Sciences Po a reputed player in academic research through its scientific production, an internationally recognized teaching university and an active participant in public debate, a forum where thought meets action.

Detailed information about our research units, Undergraduate College and Graduate schools can be found on our website.

CONDITIONS

Visiting faculty within the Sciences Po Global Program receive a net monthly stipend of 4,000 euros (from which income taxes will be deducted).

Visiting faculty are expected to teach one full course (usually 12 x 2 hour sessions) over the semester. They are also expected to contribute actively to the research community they will join, and to deliver at least one academic lecture or seminar presentation during their stay.

Visiting faculty will be given access to an office space on campus, to the Sciences Po library and other University facilities, and to the research activity and events program for the relevant Department.

APPLICATION

Applicants must be current full-time permanent faculty members of their home university. Application materials include the following documents and must be submitted in English:

- A statement of interest for the position, including research project to be undertaken at

SciencesPo

Sciences Po and specificities (ex: semester for residence)

- A proposed course to be taught in French or in English, and a two-page, session-by-session description of each course's content, for the Undergraduate College of Sciences Po or one of Sciences Po's graduate schools
- A full CV, including list of publications
- A letter of invitation from the head of the Sciences Po research unit sponsoring the visit to Sciences Po
- A letter of support from the relevant head of department or dean of the applicant's home institution confirming their agreement for this one-semester residence at Sciences Po

Applications should be submitted by email to anouk.raynaud@sciencespo.fr

Sciences Po is a bilingual university (French & English), French is therefore not required for application to this position, but one of the two languages is essential.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS: November 7, 2024

Important notice: Please note that you should contact the relevant Department/Research Centre at least 2 to 3 weeks prior the deadline for applications to secure a letter of invitation in due time.

A selection committee, with representatives from the Sciences Po Research division, Academic Affairs Division and International Affairs Division will meet in December 2024, and decisions will be communicated to applicants by Sciences Po in January 2025.

CONTACT & INFORMATION:

- Program general conditions: Anouk Raynaud, Office of International Affairs: anouk.raynaud@sciencespo.fr
- For information about research units: Vincent Morandi, Secretary General of the Research Division: vincent.morandi@sciencespo.fr

Call for Applications for Gender Studies Visiting Faculty

Visiting Faculty Stay at Sciences Po, Paris

Application deadline: November 7, 2024.

Applications are open for 1-semester stays planned in the 2025 Spring Semester, the 2025 Fall Semester, or the 2026 Spring Semester.

Sciences Po's Gender Studies Programme, with Université Paris Cité, is calling for applications for visiting faculty from around the world.

Sciences Po is an international research university, ranking among the finest institutions in the fields of humanities and social sciences.

In the Spring 2025 (2024-25 academic year), Fall 2025 (2025-26 academic year), and Spring 2026 (2025-26 academic year), Sciences Po will open three visiting faculty positions for up to a semester-long (13-weeks minimum). This Visiting Stay aims at fostering interdisciplinary opportunities, encouraging the development of new partnerships for collaborative research, as well as facilitating the mobility of English-speaking and French-speaking gender studies researchers towards France.

At Sciences Po, Gender Studies are organised through the PRESAGE Programme, a cross-cutting programme bringing together researchers from all disciplinary research units. The visiting faculty will be hosted in one of the Science Po research units (an exhaustive list can be found here), and will benefit from the dynamic of the researchers with diverse disciplinary backgrounds specialised in gender studies through PRESAGE and its activities with Université Paris Cité within the Cité du genre.

The Visiting programme is open to academics at any career stage and in any discipline. We encourage researchers from all around the globe, especially from the Global South, to apply.

CONDITIONS

Visiting faculty will receive an overall monthly stipend of 4.000 euros (before taxes).

Visiting faculty are expected to teach one full course with a gender lens (12 x 2-hours sessions) over the semester. They are also expected to contribute actively to the research community they will join, and to deliver at least one Public Lecture (for both Sciences Po and Université Paris Cité students) during their stay.

Visiting faculty will be given access to an office space on campus, in the heart of Paris, to the Sciences Po library and other University facilities and to the research activity and events programme driven by the research unit they will be hosted in.

The stay is to be scheduled between January 2025 and May/June 2025, between late August/September 2025 and December, 2025, or between January 2026 and May/June 2026.

APPLICATION

Applicants must be current full-time permanent faculty members of their home university or research institute, hold a doctorate (or equivalent university degree), and have teaching experience.

Application materials include the following and must be submitted in English or in French:

- A statement of interest for the position;
- A presentation of current and future research projects;
- A proposed course to be taught in English or French, and a two-page, session-by-session description of each course's content, for the Undergraduate College of Sciences Po or one of Sciences Po's graduate schools;
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae, including list of publications;
- An invitation letter from a Sciences Po research centre;
- A letter of support from the relevant head of department or dean of the applicant's home institution confirming their agreement for this one-semester residence at Sciences Po.

Important notice: Please note that you should contact the relevant Research Centre at least 2 to 3 weeks prior the deadline for applications to secure a letter of invitation in due time.

Applications and questions should be sent to Mathilde Croquet, academic partnerships officer: mathilde.croquet@sciencespo.fr.

Sciences Po is a bilingual university (English and French), French is therefore not required for this position but speaking one of the two languages is essential.

SCHEDULE

Deadline for applications: November 7, 2024.

A selection committee will meet after the submission deadline and decisions will be communicated to applicants by Sciences Po shortly thereafter.

Call for Applications for Visiting Faculty Discrimination, educational policies and health

Visiting Faculty Stay at Sciences Po, Paris

Application deadline: November 7, 2024.

Applications are open for 1-semester stays planned in the 2025-2026 academic year (2025 Fall Semester and 2026 Spring Semester).

Sciences Po is calling for applications for visiting faculty from around the world, in collaboration with Université Paris Cité, .

Sciences Po is an international research university, ranking among the finest institutions in the fields of humanities and social sciences.

In the Fall 2025 (2025-2026 academic year), and Spring 2026 (2025-2026 academic year), Sciences Po will open four visiting faculty positions for up to a semester (13-weeks minimum). This Visiting Stay aims at fostering interdisciplinary opportunities, encouraging the development of new partnerships for collaborative research, as well as facilitating the mobility of English-speaking and French-speaking discrimination, educational policies and health researchers towards France.

The visiting faculty will be hosted in one of the Science Po research units (an exhaustive list can be found here), and will benefit from the dynamic of the researchers with diverse disciplinary backgrounds specialised in these themes at Sciences Po and Université Paris Cité.

The Visiting programme is open to academics at any career stage and in any discipline. We encourage researchers from all around the globe to apply.

CONDITIONS

Visiting faculty will receive an overall monthly stipend of 4.000 euros (before taxes).

Visiting faculty are expected to teach one full course related to discrimination, educational policies or health studies (12 x 2-hours sessions) over the semester. They are also expected to contribute actively to the research community they will join, and to deliver at least one Public Lecture (for both Sciences Po and Université Paris Cité students) during their stay.

Visiting faculty will be given access to an office space on campus, in the heart of Paris, to the Sciences Po library and other University facilities and to the research activity and events programme driven by the research unit they will be hosted in.

The stay is to be scheduled between August/September 2025 and December 2025, or between January 2026 and May/June 2026

APPLICATION

Applicants must be current full-time permanent faculty members of their home university or research institute, hold a doctorate (or equivalent university degree), and have teaching experience.

Application materials include the following and must be submitted in English or in French:

- A statement of interest for the position;
- A presentation of current and future research projects;
- A proposed course to be taught in English or French, and a two-page, session-by-session description of each course's content, for the Undergraduate College of Sciences Po or one of Sciences Po's graduate schools;
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae, including list of publications;
- An invitation letter from a Sciences Po research centre;
- A letter of support from the relevant head of department or dean of the applicant's home institution confirming their agreement for this one-semester residence at Sciences Po

Important notice: Please note that you should contact the relevant Research Centre at least 2 to 3 weeks prior the deadline for applications to secure a letter of invitation in due time.

Applications and questions should be sent to Mathilde Croquet, academic partnerships officer mathilde.croquet@sciencespo.fr.

Sciences Po is a bilingual university (English and French), French is therefore not required for this position but speaking one of the two languages is essential.

SCHEDULE

Deadline for applications: November 7, 2024.

A selection committee will meet after the deadline and decisions will be communicated to applicants by Sciences Po shortly thereafter.

Call for Applications for Visiting Faculty in Environmental Research

Visiting Faculty Stay at Sciences Po, Paris

Application deadline: November 7, 2024.

Sciences Po is calling for applications for visiting faculty from around the world, in collaboration with Université Paris Cité. Applications are open for 1-semester stays planned in the 2025 Spring Semester, the 2025 Fall Semester and the 2026 Spring Semester.

Sciences Po is an international research university, ranking among the finest institutions in the fields of humanities and social sciences. In the Spring 2025 (2024-2025 academic year), Fall 2025 (2025-26 academic year), and Spring 2026 (2025-26 academic year), Sciences Po will open three visiting faculty positions for up to a semester (13-weeks minimum).

This Visiting Stay aims at fostering interdisciplinary opportunities in environmental research, encouraging the development of new partnerships for collaborative research, as well as facilitating the mobility of English-speaking and French-speaking researchers towards France. Research proposals focusing on one of the following themes will be particularly welcome:

- Environmental inequalities
- Health, environment and climate
- Science and Politics
- Political economy of the sea

At Sciences Po, the Institute for Environmental Transformations, which was created as part of the ExcellenceS TIERED project¹, coordinates and gives visibility to environmental research activities. Research activities are organised through the Interdisciplinary Environmental Research Workshop (AIRE), a cross-cutting programme bringing together researchers from all disciplinary research units. Research in the field of exact sciences is carried out in collaboration with Université Paris Cité, especially through the LIEPP's environmental policy unit.

The visiting faculty will be hosted in one of the Science Po research units (an exhaustive list can be found here), and will benefit from the dynamic of the researchers with diverse disciplinary backgrounds specialised in environmental research through the Institute for environmental transformations at Sciences Po and Université Paris Cité.

¹ Coordinated by Sciences Po, with Université Paris Cité as partner

The Visiting programme is open to academics at any career stage and in any discipline. We encourage researchers from all around the globe, especially women, to apply.

CONDITIONS

Visiting faculty will receive an overall monthly stipend of 4.000 euros (before taxes).

Visiting faculty are expected to teach one full course with an environmental lens (12 x 2 hour sessions) over the semester. They are also expected to contribute actively to the research community they will join, and to deliver at least one Public Lecture (for both Sciences Po and Université Paris Cité students) during their stay.

Visiting faculty will be given access to an office space on campus, in the heart of Paris, to the Sciences Po library and other University facilities and to the research activity and events programme driven by the research unit they will be hosted in.

The stay is to be scheduled between January 2025 and May/June 2025, between August/September 2025 and December 2025, or between January 2026 and May/June 2026.

Sciences Po is a bilingual university (English and French), French is therefore not required for this position but speaking one of the two languages is essential.

APPLICATION

Applicants must be current full-time permanent faculty members of their home university or research institute, hold a doctorate (or equivalent university degree), and have teaching experience.

Application materials include the following and must be submitted in English or in French:

- A statement of interest for the position ;
- A presentation of current and future research projects ;
- A proposed course to be taught in English or French, and a two-page, session-by-session description of each course's content, for the Undergraduate College of Sciences Po or one of Sciences Po's graduate schools ;
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae, including list of publications ;
- An invitation letter from a Sciences Po research centre;
- A letter of support from the relevant head of department or dean of the applicant's home institution confirming their agreement for this one-semester residence at Sciences Po.

Important notice: Please note that you should contact the relevant Research Centre at least 2 to 3 weeks prior the deadline for applications to secure a letter of invitation in due time.

Applications should be submitted by email to Mathilde Croquet, academic partnerships officer, at mathilde.croquet@sciencespo.fr.

Applicants should feel free to reach out to Charlotte Halpern, director of the Institute for environmental transformations : charlotte.halpern@sciencespo.fr, and Mathilde Croquet mathilde.croquet@sciencespo.fr.

SCHEDULE

Deadline for applications: November 7, 2024.

A selection committee will meet after the submission deadline, and decisions will be communicated to applicants by Sciences Po shortly thereafter.